PLAINVIEW PLANTS MANY SHADE TREES

New Church Is Completed. Big Land Deals Are Made.

Plainview, Tex., March 22.—The planting of trees has received a remarkable impetus in the Plainview country this year. The advent of irrigation is indirectly the cause of the movement. Government irrigation engineer Fuller stated, on his visit to the Plainview Water carnival, that it would be practically impossible to raise certain delicate but profitable varieties of truck here unless the force of the spring winds was lessened in some manner. He suggested the planting of trees as windbreaks and recommended the Lombardy poplar. Acting on his suggestion an enormous planting of shade and fruit trees is taking place. Many trees are coming in on every train as local nurseries are unable to supply the demand even though they are working day and night crews while the planting season is on. One nursery has sold $3000 worth of trees the past three months and now has more than 300,000 shade and fruit trees on hand in anticipation of an unprecedented demand from the plains country from now on.

The Catholic church, situated in Highland addition, was completed the past week. There are but few Catholics in Plainview, but as this is the only church building owned by that denomination within a radius of 75 miles, it will likely have a large attendance. Including the building just mentioned, there are nine church edifices in Plainview, a town of 5000, and the number will likely be increased to 11 by the close of the year.
A. D. Shook of Pasadena, Cal., has invested $100,000 in city property in Tahoka and in land in Lynn county within a week. Reports are coming in of big deals being consummated all over the south. Shook is putting on the place of Earl Keck as the passenger agent of the Santa Fe at Plainview. Mr. Keck has been transferred to the local freight department. The Santa Fe system is putting on a deep plowing exhibition at the Anderson place, two miles west of Plainview. Large crowds of farmers have been attending. The plows are turning the soil to a depth of 18 inches to two feet.

LARGE FRUIT CROP BELIEVED ASSURED

Fine Horse Burns to Death in a Barn at Artesia.

Artesia, N. M., March 22.—A large fruit crop is assured in this section of the Pecos valley this year, as the trees that have thus far bloomed have an unusually large number of blossoms and the orchardists are prepared to fight frost with smudge pots. This is the first year for smudging in this district.

At a meeting of the Democratic club it was decided by a majority of one to put out a straight Democratic ticket for school directors and a caucus will be held March 23 to nominate two candidates for the positions. The Arthur Middleton concert at the Western college auditorium March 23d promises to be largely attended as over 200 tickets for the concert have already been sold.

The farce comedy, "Men, Maids and Matchmakers," given by the Artesia high school at the Nimitz theater was a decided success and well patronized. From some unknown cause a barn belonging to G. L. Tyler on Rose lawn caught fire and was soon totally consumed, there being a high wind. A mare, valued at $300 was burned to death.

Officials of the Santa Fe were here last week to make arrangements for the location and erection on Texas avenue of a new $25,000 station.

Herman Jones and Miss Beniah Turknett, both of Artesia, were married at the Presbyterian parsonage by Rev. E. C. Mathews.

The Odd Fellows committee have about perfected their program for the celebration of the anniversary of Odd Fellowship, April 26. In the afternoon there will be a large parade, headed by the Artesia band and patriarchy militant in uniform from Roswell and followed by the lodges in regalia from Roswell, Dexter, Hagerman, Lake Arthur, Carlsbad, Hope and Artesia. The parade will be followed by a banquet at the grand lodge. Rev. Joel Hedgpeth, of Tucuman will then give an address on Odd Fellowship, the college orchestra furnishing the music for the occasion. At 8 o'clock a banquet will be given to the visitors and in the evening the degrees will be exemplified by the various degree teams at the Odd Fellows hall.

TEST SHOTS SINK BATTLESHIP TEXAS

Old Vessel Is Shot Full of Holes in Naval Practice.

Port Monroe, Va., March 22.—The old battleship Texas, now the San Marcos, was sunk in the firing tests of which she was the subject yesterday.

Shattered by a storm of shells the old battleship rests on the mud of Tangier sound. The veteran of the United States navy sank under the spectacular marksmanship of her new sisters.

Gaping holes in her port side and two jagged wounds in her forward armor where shells passed completely through her showed how she succumbed. Part of both her fighting masts were shot away and her deck was a mass of debris.

The broadsides delivered by the battleship New Hampshire at varying distances of from six to seven and one-half miles were considered remarkable by ordnance officers. More than one-third of the shots were said to have gone true, although nothing official was given out.

A half hour after the sun had risen, the first shot was fired. This was followed by another but both were merely to determine the range. Then began a beautiful exhibition of marksmanship.

A salvo directed to the stern of the Texas raised huge columns of water and deluged the vessel, leaving her unscathed. Then, to show the control of the 12 and 8-inch cannon, another hail of shells was dropped immediately in front of the ship. The miss was intentional, but the shells struck so close as to give rise at first to the belief that the first had been made.

The shooting then began in earnest. The New Hampshire followed by the battleship Mississippi 250 yards in her wake, drew off approximately 71-2 miles and began firing. All of the broadsides were delivered against the Texas while the attacking vessel was steaming back and forth along the line at 10 knot speed.

Princes Of Spain Are Ill

Prince Don Jaime, king Alfonso's second son (on the right) who is seriously ill; and his brother, the prince of the Asturias. Professor Henry Raymond, an eminent specialist has been hastily called to Madrid from Geneva, to attend the infant prince. Prince Jaime, who is almost three years old, and his brother, who is a year older, always have been fairly healthy boys until the throat trouble developed in the younger. The older son, the heir to the throne, looks very much like his mother, who was princess Ena of Battenberg, but little prince Jaime is the image of his Spanish father, having all the Bourbon facial characteristics.

William Walker, Famous Filibuster; His Career

The soldiers of fortune in the present Mexican insurrection recalls to the Mexican Herald the famous William Walker, called poetically "the grey-eyed man of destiny," chiefly known for his invasion of Nicaragua, and finally of Honduras, where at the turn of his fortune he met his doom, to stand before a firing squad. But what has passed out of the public mind is his fantastic adventure in Mexico.

Walker was born at Nashville, Tenn., in 1824, of a respectable family, and went to the local university, being destined to the law; but later he studied medicine in the old world—at Edinburgh and at Heidelberg. On returning to the United States he found the medical career uninviting and went into journalism in San Francisco. When 28 years old, Walker, who had consorted with men of an adventurous character, dreamed that he might become a figure of importance by effecting the conquest of Lower California and Sonora. He organized an expedition, managed to effect a landing at La Paz, captured a few small towns, and proclaimed himself president of a new republic. As soon as the regular troops of this country marched against him, he saw there was no hope against so superior a force and fled across the border. He was arrested, charged with violating the neutrality laws but in some way was acquitted. All this was in 1853.

Two years later, in 1855, Walker landed an expedition at Realajo, Nicaragua, laid siege successfully to Granada, and by a curious turn of luck extorted such favorable terms from the government of the country that he was made minister of war and commander in chief of the army. A bitter quarrel broke out between the soldier of fortune and the president, and Walker had the president shot, when he took the presidency for himself. Finally the people forced him out and he was conveyed to New Orleans on a United States war vessel. Although he had been put under bonds to keep the peace, Walker within six months headed another expedition against Nicaragua, but failed to win the favor of the people who ejected him. He then turned his attention to Honduras, and after exciting adventures sought refuge on a British sloop-of-war whose commander, having no sympathy with him, gave him up to his foes who shot him at Trujillo on the 20th of September, 1856.
